

Dear Lecturer,

Four months ago no-one could have predicted the full country lockdown situation we are facing. Daily life has changed dramatically and impacted people from all walks of life.

We all have a responsibility to adapt to the situation and find new ways to teach, study and excel. Technology and digital platforms give us the capabilities to connect when we physically are not able to. Oxford University Press South Africa's trusted, locally relevant content supports lecturers facing quickly changing environments and unclear futures with complex challenges.

In response to this challenge we would like to extend the permissions of all our ancillary materials to our prescribing lecturers. These ancillaries are hosted on our online platform Learning Zone (<https://learningzone.oxford.co.za/>) and they are available for implementation on your institution's Learning Management System (LMS). Please make use of these resources as you plan the continuation of you student's education in the current situation.

These challenges are not unsurmountable and we are constantly looking at ways, both locally and globally, to support and improve our offering to lecturers and students and to ensure we keep transforming lives through education.

Please feel free to contact your Oxford University Press South Africa Sales Consultant if you need any assistance or have any questions.

Anri Mouton – Academic Consultant: Gauteng, North West, Free State, Northern Cape, Namibia
Cell 082 603 4054
Email: anri.mouton@oup.com

Imraan Vanker – Senior Academic Consultant: Kwazulu-Natal, Eastern Cape
Cell: 082 601 1262
Email: imraan.vanker@oup.com

Prince Seshabela – Academic Consultant: Gauteng, Limpopo, Mpumalanga, Swaziland
Cell: 060 588 5819
Email: prince.Seshabela@oup.com

Genevieve Ruiters – Academic Consultant: Western Cape, Eastern Cape, Free State, Northern Cape, Botswana
Cell: 082 804 9641
Email: genevieve.ruiters@oup.com